(a camera system would be nice, and i'm also making a FNaF 1 map and it has cameras, or maybe add something breakable, like the drawings, it makes it more realistic) -poor textures (but it's fine, considering the age of the engine) -where are the tables!? (first map, no tables whatsoever in the dining room) -too many lights! (you could try to put the brightness down, it's not scary when it's bright, unless you're making a day version) -you could add a chair (the security guard can't stand all night, duh, or maybe he can who knows) It's a good thing that i ran into this, i was about to publish my Five Nights at Freddy's map.. 6 (not a port to it, but rather my own version from scratch) EDIT: Oh, sorry, i didn't notice it was a beta, my fault.. 3y On the good side: -nice sounds (the ambience scared me a bit) -the maps are (on some parts) identical to the ones in the original games On the bad side: -no interaction! Doors and lights are enough, though.. And if you ever do come with tables, add breakable hats onto them (just what i did, i named 32 hats).
